ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have

it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year

by sending $2.00 to this office now.

The city fellow tells away

And all the while

He keeps increasing day by day

His little pile.

He talks of the country's charm

And hopes some day to buy a farm.

The farmer tills the stubborn soil,

Subdues the sod,

And banks in autumn for his toil

A goodly ward.

And when his pile is heaped down

He hopes to go and live in town.

—Mass City Journal.

If you plant pear trees in rich soil you invite blight.

Good horse blankets are savers of valuable horse flesh and high-priced feed.

Fruit trees are slow-growing plants, and therefore do not need quick-acting fertilizers as a rule.

Do not disturb eggs after the eighteenth day, or open incubator when the hatch is coming off, as it lets the moisture out.

Pure bred animals will almost always reproduce their good qualities, while the scrub will invariably reproduce their bad qualities.

In the United States, growers raise about seventy five bushels of potatoes to the acre, while in England and Ireland the crops run from 200 to 235 bushels to the acre.

Use a variety of manure on the garden and plenty of it. Well-decomposed manure is best, but if fresh manure is applied in the winter it will become mild and safe by leaching before spring.

No matter at what price you sell the poor cows it is generally safe to say you get all they are worth and a little more, particularly if she is to be classed as a dairy animal.

A litter of pigs dropped today will be in condition for market in six months.

Pigs will make a pound of gain from less feed than will a beef steer and the meat will go farther than will a like quantity of beef.

Regularly in milking is necessary for maintaining a full flow. Where the cows are milked late in the morning and early in the evening, a decrease is sure to follow. The periods between milkings must be exactly twelve hours in length for best results.

Arrange to have better pastures for all of the animals this coming spring and summer. Cut out sprouts, seed the pasture land and build good fences before the pasture season opens. Easy money is made from good pasture with good stocks. They do the harvesting themselves, besides fertilizing the land while doing it—a good combination.

In very cold weather it is difficult to make cows drink as much as they should.

Giving them a daily small ration of salt in their feed will increase their demand for drink. When fed partly with roots or green food, twice watering will answer. Fattening cattle often drink but once a day.

In starting rhubarb from roots, divide the clump of old roots, with at least one and to each division. Three or four buds will be better. Dig a deep trench and fill it with half of compost or a variety of well-rotted fertilizer. Cover this fertilizer with 3 or 4 inches of good soil, pressing it down firmly, set the roots and cover them with more soil. The planting may be done either in spring or fall, yet spring is usually considered the best time.

The evils of one crop agriculture are not to be measured in the immediate present, but in our declining years or when we turn over a wornout farm to our chil-

ren. The vast cotton fields of the south and the wheat fields of the north and west bear mute but emphatic witness of the suicidal policy of adhering to but one crop.—Kansas Farmer.

Careful crop rotation is essential because it has been found that the remains of one crop have a poisonous effect upon the next crop if it is of the same plant and such remains do not interfere with

GATHERED UP.

Another easy way to break into print just now is to announce the discovery of the first robin.

Some people seem to think the severity of their censures on the fallings of others is an atonement for their own.

What Happens—When a man begins to get up in the world the first thing he does is to change the name of the barn to

"the garage."

It requires real art to shut a door correctly, we find that a whole lot of people haven't any art in that direction.

line in the regular matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

If you know or hear of any one who is looking for a good healthy town to move into, tell them to come to Weymouth as it is the healthiest town in the state. The average longevity of those who died last year, was about 40 years, which is far above the average of men and far above the average in this state. Of the 225 people who passed to the great unknown in 1911, three were over 90 years of age, twenty-five between 80 and 90, forty-one between 70 and 80 and twenty-seven between 60 and 70.

Read elsewhere in this issue an article on "Hot Shots for the Experts." Our sympathy has for a long time been with the overburdened teachers in our public schools, especially in the lower grades.
Year after year new burdens are placed upon them and now for a sum of $200 or $300 a year, they are asked to be fathers, mothers, lawyers, doctors, nurses, dressmakers, barbers, general sanitary inspectors, policemen, transit officers, spiritual advisors and savings bank officers. Some people think a teacher's work is from 9 to 11:45 a. m. and from 1:30 to 2:30 p. m., but the hours often extend far into the night.

Only three days to the annual election of town officers and the board of elected officers will be made up for another year in the main there is but little excitement regarding the result. Barring a repurtition of the names for the boards of Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor, there are thirty-nine names on the ballot with thirty-five to be elected and there is a question of doubt as to the result in two positions, other than that, the winners are already elected by the majority of the people. The last item on the ballot should, however, receive the most careful attention of every well wisher of the town—viz. that of license. Last year, with 1,367 votes cast, Weymouth had on the A side a margin of 255, which is noteworthy. There were 294 blanks, or more than thirty per cent, of the voters who failed to go on record as either for or against the question of license.
Make a mark for temperance and good order in 1912.

Orphan Hope Lodge A. F. & M. M.

By courtesy of Delta Lodge, Orphans Hope Lodge is still occupying its rooms at Brantree for regular and special meeting and one of the latter will be held next Wednesday evening.

Outside of routine business two very pleasant surprises came to the lodge at its last meeting. Delta Lodge, headed by W. M. Charles G. Jordan, paid the lodge a visit and in a very kind address Mr.
Jordan presented in behalf of his lodge a very handsome Bible, square and compass, which was immediately followed by another present, a very elaborate gavel by Wm. E. Ames, a member of Orphans Hope Lodge.

Old Colony Gas Co.

The Old Colony Gas Company is making preparations for the summer's campaign, but then do not plan to wait for summer. Mr. Smith is the new superintendent of distribution at the company, and is rapidly getting things under way.
As was given out in last week's advertisement the company has obtained the services of Mrs. Bray, an experienced demonstrator of the gas range, who is now making frequent visits to the out-letting throughout the district, and giving the house wives valuable hints in the use of their new stoves.

Union Church Men's Club.

Another successful supper and enjoyable and social gathering must be credited to the Men's club for last Wednesday night. The supper which was prepared by the same efficient committee of ladies was well cooked and well served. It consisted of roast beef served hot, with mashed potatoes and gravy, macaroni tomato sauce, cabbage salad, rolls and coffee. Baked Indian pudding and cream followed for desert.

Union Church Men's Club.

After the tables had been cleared away President Ayers, after a few words by way of introduction, presented the speaker of the evening, James L. Tryon, Jr. D. of Boston, a director of the American Peace society.

Union Church Men's Club.

Dr. Tryon's subject was the Arbitration Treaties which are before the Senate, and which in his opinion, are not to be ratified. Dr. Tryon paid a high tribute to President Taft for grasping what was probably the greatest opportunity in the history of the world to advance the cause of international peace. Dr. Tryon's address was replete with interesting facts and he was roundly applauded and given a rising vote of thanks. An interesting discussion followed the address, inter-persed with fun and flashes of wit and good stories. A resolution was passed favoring the adoption of the Arbitration treaties, a copy of which is to be sent to our senior Senator, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge.

NO. 21.

A Valuable Habit.

[Written for the Gazette and Transcript.] In spite of the fact that we pride ourselves on our independence, it is amazing how many of us are dependent on our family or friends to decide questions for us.

A simple question of what to wear on a given occasion is, for some people, a cause for long and serious debate. They ask advice of every member of the family which merely leads to more perplexity, because they cannot then decide whose advice to take.

Here is a holiday. The vacillating one wishes to spend it worthily. Where shall he go? Theatre or golf? Beach or Boston? Oh, dear! It is so hard to decide.
The morning slips away. Lunch makes no clearer. The whole family gets red and the feet begin to tap the decision.

At last a motor car appears at the gate and the whole affair is settled. But the decision comes from without.

This sounds trivial and may be considered harmless, though often exasperating.
It has, however, a most serious aspect.
It is a faculty of the mind. It may be developed like any other talent, in which case it will be found of great value to its possessor; or it may be neglected, in which case its absence will prove a handicap.

Emergencies reveal to us our weaknesses. The general run of an uneventful life may present few opportunities for us to exercise power of decision. This is all the more reason why we should cultivate the habit of deciding for ourselves, that when the unexpected conditions present themselves we may be free to act, having our own course of action well-considered.

Our children read the story of the rat who could not decide to leave his home in the shabby old barn till at last, by the downfall of the building, he was caught half in and half out of his hole. Yet all in vain they rush to his aid, for they learn the fate of all who cannot decide.

It is refreshing indeed to meet one who can decide. We somehow feel that their brain tissue is firmer, their value to the world greater.

It is needless to point to examples of this type. History is made up of such.
The irresolute members of society have to mark deep enough to deserve record.
Perhaps you have never thought whether you belong to the one class or the other.
It will pay you to test your ability in this line. Watch yourself through a day or two and see how you handle the simple matters you have to decide. Infer from your observations how you would deal with great questions if you had to.

Consider in this connection the advice of Epictetus:

"Whatever you would make habitual, practise it. And if you would make a thing habitual, do not practise it, but habituate yourself to something else."

EVLYN EAGLE.

Shoe Industry.

Activities in the boot and shoe trade are largely confined to preparations for the coming spring season. Manufacturers are getting out samples for the fall season, but little will be done in advancing the interests of these goods until after the spring retail season has opened. Shoe dealers are becoming more in the habit of attending to one season at a time, more especially so where seasons overlap.

This year there should be a ready response to the representatives of manufacturers and wholesalers, when the fall samples are shown, because the winter of 1911 and 1912 have been unmitigated in its character, and sensible goods have been well sold. Therefore it should not be necessary to do much beating about the bush when new goods are presented. The trade is justified in expecting a good manufacturing season.

Until the spring weather is more promoted retailers will not feel the impulse to buy new shoes, as consumers will make the heavy shoes do so long as possible.

Any doubt that the coming spring and summer would not be favorable to white shoes may be dismissed at once, for dealers and handiers will be quick to see that white shoes will be in demand and dealers in wash prints expect a good business. With such fabrics for gowns, white shoes are eminently fitting, and the quantities of similar dress goods offered should settle all doubts regarding white shoes.

There is a very close association between the colors of garments and of shoes.
It is a common custom to have women's gowns and shoes of the same color, and if the color of the shoes is different it must, at least, harmonize. But in a broader sense the character of garments influences the color of shoes, and when there are certain changes in sight in garments, changes in shoes which may not far off. It is announced that certain changes in men's fashions will result in reducing the popularity of tan shoes, because their conspicuousness will be emphasized, and that the only way for tan shoes to hold their general popularity will be for tanners to use a weathered shade similar to the shade obtained after several months' wear. A continuance of the present color, which is almost a pumpkin yellow, will, it is said, make the tan shoe impossible to wear, and drive from the use of those wearers who cultivate harmony in dress.

The mandate of fashion is for harmony in hosiery and shoes, and the tendency in hosiery for fall and winter of 1912 and 1913 seems to be toward black rather than white.

Thus the color tendency of the future in shoes seems to be outlined.

The shoe industry is now in one of those periods when much depends on the careful education of the trade and the consumer. The advance of leather values naturally suggests less expensive shoes to supply the needs of those whose incomes do not keep pace with the increase of expenses. Those who are able to buy freely at all times favor keeping the quality of the shoes up to the price.

Shoe manufacturers, through their designers, can do much to help these who seek the pinch of higher prices, and at the same time maintain the high standard which position is generally favored by the dealers. If the designers will provide shoes that have neatness of appearance, and trim form, with a minimum of ornament, and make it possible in showmaking, leaving the novelties and ultra styles for special orders rather than staple lines. Men do not require elaborate shoes; neatness of form in durable shapes are preferred to decorated effects, and if both sexes are educated in the medium of widely displayed plain but neat shoes, the price question will be much simplified.—Boston Transcript.

Forty-Eighth Anniversary.

Delphi Lodge No. 15 Knights of Pythias Celebrate With Banquet, Entertainment and Dance Last Friday Evening in K. of P. Hall.

With one of the largest gatherings in the history of the lodge, Delphi Lodge No.
15 K. of P. held its annual banquet and entertainment in celebration of the forty-eighth anniversary of Pythianism in K. of P. Hall, Weymouth, last Friday evening. The committee had arranged for a large crowd and when Edward Brown struck up a march at the piano and the long line of members of the lodge and their friends marched up stairs to the banquet hall, there were about 100 in line.
The banquet was served at seven o'clock by H. J. Seder, caterer of Boston. At the conclusion of the supper the party assembled in the lodge room and the following program was presented: Remarks by Charleston Commander Elmer Smith; reception by orchestra led by Edward Brown presentation of Past Chancellor's letter to Jacob Dextheimer by Barton F. Johnson; soprano solo, Miss Adelaide Wilbur; reading, Miss Nina Barne Wilbur of Boston; fancy dance, Miss May Allen; solo, Miss McCarthy with cornet obligato by Louis Gallaret; reading, Miss Wilbur; special dance, Miss Allen and solo, Miss McCarthy. After this program the hall was cleared and dancing was enjoyed by the gathering until one o'clock. Drown's four piece orchestra furnished music.
The committee in charge of the affair was E. A. Smith, H. W. Rockwood, C. L. New-comb and W. S. Orr.

On the Alleys.

At the Norfolk club this week, team 4, Warren Philbrick, captain, pinned the Indian sign on team 3, Elliott Veszie, captain, by taking three strings and total with a pin fall of 1267 to 1226.

P. T. Pearson, superintendent of our public schools, is hitting the pins in great style the last three or four weeks, getting in the neighborhood of 190 each string he bows.

The candle pin league at the Norfolk is nearly half over and from all appearances the race will be pretty hot right up to the finish with all the teams pretty evenly matched.

In the tournament at the C. M. A. for the monthly prize for the highest three string total, "Bennie" Elkington leads this month with 325. Next place goes to the whites that night, was there, Ben?

In the closest match ever rolled at the C. M. A., team 1, Arthur Cunningham as captain, and team 4, Albert Newcomb as captain, divided honors on Wednesday evening, Newcomb's five taking two strings and Cunningham's five taking one string and total with 1241 to 1229. Walter Tirrell was high man with singles of 95, 96 and 105, and a three string total of 296.

The Norfolk club candle pin team four needed to Brantree last Wednesday evening and rolled the Cochrato club. The South Weymouth lads were defeated two strings and total, the Brantree quiet-et getting 1357 to 1282 for the visitors.
Sam Robinson excelled for the Norfolk with 288 in three strings. The bowling fever has hit Charlie Farrar again after nearly a season's lay-off, went to Brantree with the Norfolk five and rolled 97, 90 and 92 for a total of 279. Not so bad, Charlie, after your vacation!

Warren Philbrick's five in the Norfolk League received a set back last Monday evening when E. W. Hall's quintet took all three strings and total with a pinfall of 1337 to 1213. Good work, Team 5, 1337 is some pinfall.

Warren Philbrick's five winners in the bottle pin league at the Norfolk club were presented with bowling shoes this week as prizes for the winning first place in the big pin tournament. The shoes are of the Stetson Shoe Co. manufacture.

At the C. M. A. Tuesday night, Loring's Invincibles won an easy victory from team 3 by taking two strings and total.
Loring as usual was high roller with 269 in three strings.

A. T. Lound's team pinned defeat on George Marshall's team at the South Weymouth club on Tuesday evening by taking two out of three strings and total with 1220 to 1192.

Harold Raymond's five went down to defeat last night at the C. M. A. at the hands of Norton Patti's team, the latter getting all three strings and total with a pinfall of 1259 to 1145.

That was some bowling at the C. M. A. last Friday night when teams 5 and 6 in the old league in candle pin rolled off all of their postured matches, and team 5 got 5 points, thus creating a tie with Loring's Invincibles for the cups.
In the first match team 5 got 1225 to 1134 for Raymond's team while in the second match, team 5 got the first two strings and total with a pinfall of 1259 to 1145.

Weymouth Board of Trade.

One of the most interesting meetings in the history of the Weymouth Board of Trade was a special meeting called for last night, for the purpose of discussing some of the articles in the warrant for the town meeting and considering questions of importance in connection with the same.

The meeting was held in Grand Army hall, and there was a good attendance of people from different parts of the town.
Edward W. Hunt, the newly elected president, opened the meeting with words of welcome to the members and invited citizens from other organizations.

The first article taken up was Article 12:
To see what sum of money the town would raise for the support of the Fire Department.

Walter W. Pratt, clerk of the department, spoke of the need of an increased appropriation, on account of a scarcity of horses and mules needed for fire engines and buildings. He also recommended a special department for fire-dies as a matter of economy by not calling on hose carriages and hook and ladder trucks when they would be of no use. Other speakers were Peter Gallant, Fred Humphrey and D. M. Estep.

Articles 13, 14 and 15, relative to Forest Warden, purchase of an Auto-hose wagon and erection of building were discussed to quite a length by R. B. Worster, of the special committee, appointed at last annual meeting, and others, but no action was taken.

Article 15 is to see if the town would appropriate $5,000 for the purpose of installing water meters and the ball was opened by D. M. Estep, chairman of the Water Commissioners. He spoke of the immense waste of water and the increase in the cost of water. He also spoke of the need of a water meter department, and a motion to adopt the water supply and a more uniform charge as to quantity used, and a motion to adopt the meter system prevailed.

Article 16, To see what sum of money will be raised for the support of town officers, was taken up upon motion of E. Jordan, for debate and it was the gem of the evening. F. H. Torrey said the assessors wanted an additional sum for clerical help and for the purpose of reviewing the system of the town.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH

The alarm early last Friday morning from box 53 was for a blaze in the house on Main street owned by John Vinson.

The occupants of the house all escaped in safety and the quick response of the local department saved the structure from being damaged to any extent, except by water.

—George Pitcher of Boston was the guest during the past week of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Eliza J. Pitcher.

—Ferdinand Cushing has been confined to his home for a few days with a slight illness.

—H. T. Tirrell of Randolph was the guest during the past week of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tirrell.

—Thomas V. Nash of Hylton place has been entertaining J. Chase of Boston in the past few days. Mr. Chase is in his 96th year and is remarkably active for his age.

Mr. Chase was a noted musician and played trumpet in Carter's band many years ago.

—Stephen Pratt of this village sang at an entertainment given by the Home circle of the First Congregational church in Rockland the first of the week.

—Rev. Robert H. Cochrane of Braintree occupied the pulpit of the Union church of this village last Sunday in exchange with Rev. Albert V. Hunt.

At the Y. P. S. C. E. evening, Rev. A. V. House gave an illustrated lecture on "American Missionary Association Work in the South."

—Miss Ruth Allen of Bridgewater Normal school spent the school vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Allen of South Weymouth.

—Mrs. E. M. Hunt of this place has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Reynolds of Randolph for a few days.

—Thomas Martin of Whitman was in town this past week visiting friends and relatives.

—The Union A. C. of this village, is intending to enter the South Shore baseball league, being formed in this section, and a fast team is looked for under the direction of C. H. Gaffney.

—The South Weymouth Co-op. bank issues new shares in March. See ad. page.

At the last meeting of the Old Colony Driving club plans were laid for the coming season. The club is planning for a number of improvements at the race track a new fence along the home stretch being a possible undertaking. The 1924 season will open on April 19 and matinees will be held on every Saturday and holiday until about November 1.

—C. H. Gaffney, manager of the Union A. C. of this village is busy arranging a schedule of games in the South Shore baseball league which consists of the same teams as are members of the South Shore League.

At the last meeting of the Village Study club held in the Fogg library building on Monday evening a number of interesting papers were read among which were articles on "Cuba and Porto Rico up to 1898" by Miss Helen Courtney and one on "Cuba as a Sovereign State" by Herbert H. Longfellow. Miss Helen Courtney read "President McKinley's Message of April 1898" and a debate on the resolve "That the United States Should Annex Cuba" was led in the affirmative by Merton L. Holbrook and Roy E. Moore, and in the negative by Rev. Albert V. House and Henry S. Stowers.

A special meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Moore on the evening of March 11, when "Celtic Rivalry" will be discussed.

—While engaged in running a machine at the Stetson shoe factory last Wednesday, William A. O'Connell, 25 years of age, got his arm caught in the machine, severely crushing his hand. His wounds were dressed by a doctor and it is not known if this writing whether he will lose one of his fingers or not.

—The Union A. C. easily defeated the Braintree Civic club in the local game last Saturday night by the score of 45 to 8.

—Miss Caroline B. Phelps, formerly milliner at H. W. Barnes' store is in town this week from Milford, N. H., visiting friends.

—Master Kenneth Beals of Boston has been the guest this week of his grandmother of Bond street.

—Mrs. Elmer Thayer of Main street is able to be out again after her recent operation for appendicitis.

Old South Church Notes.

The funeral of Mrs. Samuel Doble, formerly of this place, who died at her home at North Abington Wednesday after a long illness, will be held at this church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed on Sunday at 2 o'clock.

The combined meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. and the evening service will be held at 6 o'clock.

Universal Church Notes.

The assistant pastor, Mr. William V. Ross, will give special Lenten sermons during the coming season. His subject for next Sunday morning will be "The Friends of Jesus."

He has engaged to assist the choir and some special musical services are under consideration.

At the vesper service to be held next Sunday at 5 o'clock, Holy Communion will be observed.

Old Colony Club.

The lecture "Is the World a Dice-Box?" by the Rev. A. A. Berle proved to be most instructive and interesting in the Union church on the afternoon of February 22. Beautiful music was rendered by a trio, Mrs. Weston Atwood at the organ and Miss Helen Richards and Miss Margaret Howe at the piano.

The next meeting of the club will be in the Union church Thursday afternoon, March 14 at 5 o'clock. The entertainment will consist of a concert under the direction of Stuart Mason who needs no introduction to a Weymouth audience. Open meeting.

Louvre's Honorable Descent.

The Paris Louvre, now the world's finest art gallery, was originally a royal residence in the reign of Dagobert, about the year 628 of our era.

NORTH WEYMOUTH.

—Mrs. George W. Clark is ill at her home on Curtis street with a severe cold.

—The members of the Pilgrim church and parish are to give a reception on Wednesday evening, March 6th, to Mr. F. G. Merrill who is to leave soon to become pastor of the Main street Congregational church of Amesbury.

—On the evening of February 23, Frederick G. Merrill, Jr. was tendered a surprise party by twenty-two of his schoolmates. The evening was spent with a delicious and refreshing meal of ice cream and cake were served. Before the guests left for their homes, Frederick was presented with a beautiful silver ring.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sidelinger, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thomas and Mrs. E. R. O'Neil, extended the Bicknell family reunion at United States hotel, February 22nd. A social hour preceded the dinner when many newcomers were greeted. One, Mr. Bicknell whose grandfather, Bond, a missionary, was an esteemed friend of Rev. Edward Dyer and his wife during their residence in Hingham. The members of the family were present from Connecticut, Rhode Island, Boston and the Weymouths. Music and addresses from Hon. Thomas Bicknell president, Rev. George Bicknell of Cambridge secretary, Harry V. Bicknell and Benjamin H. Bicknell were enjoyed by the company present. It was voted to have the next reunion at East Weymouth, June 17, 1912.

—Wilhelmina Huttenen returned Thursday from an extended visit with her parents in Finland.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Baste of Worcester are the guests of Mrs. C. G. Trussell.

—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Peterson of Bridge street on Wednesday, February 28, a daughter.

—Mrs. Edward S. Dyer of Holliston is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. J. W. Bartlett of North street.

—Simon Levangie moved from Shaw street to Beachmont on Saturday last.

—Mr. McKenzie of Clements express is out again after being confined to his home for two weeks as the result of an accident.

—A most attractive and unique private dancing party was given by the Sakschewitch family in the home of the family on Thursday evening, February 29th. The hall was artistically decorated with pink crepe paper, pink roses and black "sassy" cats. Before the dance there was a reception, the matrons being Mrs. W. O. Collier, Mrs. C. C. Davis and Mrs. R. H. Dix. The grand march was led by Miss Velma Collier and Nathaniel Ford, followed by the members of the club. One feature was the Cupid dance in which a shower of pink cupid came floating down upon the dancers from a pink bag in the center of the room. This bag had six pink ribbons attached to it and at a signal each member of the club pulled one. The color scheme was pink throughout, a pink moon on which was the word "Sakschewitch," pink dance orders, pink decorations. A great part of the music, which was furnished by the Wollaston orchestra was from the "Pink Lady." Ice cream and cake and punch were served during the evening. The committee in charge of the affair was as follows: Misses Mabel F. Baker, Olive L. Blake, Velma L. Collier, Lillian B. Fisher, Nellie E. Powers and Doris L. Torrey. This dance was a very successful social affair.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have
it delivered at your house with some thing new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.The foolish man plants his orchard on low ground and the wise man seeks the hills.The best location for a new peach orchard in this latitude would be a north slope. There, buds would be later in starting and not so apt to be caught by frost.Several years since a gardener discovered that by planting his squash seeds in earth that had a layer of coal ashes above and below it, the vines were not molested by earth worms.When your horse scrambles up into the stall at the sound of your voice, you may be sure that your voice does not sound right. Look into this and do the right thing when you did not want it to.Now, when the heavy wagon is not in use, is a good time to take it on the big barn floor, disjunct it and wash it and give it a good coat of paint. This will add many years to the life of the wagon.Saw off the handle of an old broom and use it to brush your horse with after you have been over him with a comb and brush of the regular kind. Be careful how you handle this little stall the first time, however, lest the horse may be scared by it.An excellent designer of lice is four ounces of powdered kerosene and two quarts of boiling water. Let stand till cool apply to the affected parts with a sponge or coarse brush. One application is usually sufficient.Even when it is not absolutely necessary to find a new location for the garden it is well to rotate the soil every two years. Planting the ground to some crop foreign to the soil will often renew and help it wonderfully.Thoroughly working and mixing the garden soil to a fine and deep seed bed is vitally important. The mixing incorporates the fertilizers evenly among the soil particles, and makes a bed in which seeds can germinate well and the roots of the plants can push down deep and wide for securing abundance of food for large growth and perfect maturity.Thousands of dollars are lost to horse owners and the country each year by the carelessness with which the colts are handled during the first six or nine months of their existence. Like plants, if they are stunted in the start it is very hard to get a rapid, healthy growth out of them afterward.To grow asparagus from seed, plant the seed in spring as early as possible, covering with about an inch of fine soil.
Several weeks will be required for the seed to germinate and the young plants to come up. Give clean cultivation from the first, and thin the young plants to stand about 2 inches apart in the row.
In the fall, cut the tops away, and the following spring take up the roots to set in the permanent row.No farm home vegetable garden should be without a good row or bed of asparagus. It is of the easiest culture and can be grown almost anywhere. It comes on for table use very early in spring, before most other plants are ready and a short row of it will supply a common-sized family with an abundance of this appetizing and healthful green food for four or five weeks at a season when green things are most relished.One thing must be remembered in sowing clover seed, and that is that the seed must be covered rather deeply, more deeply than average farmers consider sufficient. The seed may germinate on the surface soil, or covered only a fraction of an inch deep, in the spring with moist conditions, yet the young plants will not grow and die unless their roots are buried deep in the soil. With shallow covering, when the first dry spell in spring or summer comes, the young clover dies from lack of moisture and plant food.A good garden makes a good table.
"Like a garden" is the phrase expressive of perfect health. A good garden is therefore an unfailing sign that someone about the place knows what good farming is—on a small scale at least. Many a farm garden is the family demonstration plat, out of which grow progress and prosperity as well as potage.—Farm and Fireside.

A Texas Court of Appeals has just re-dered a decision defining what is a legal fence in the Lone Star State. It is that a legal fence must be at least five feet high and be of such construction that a hog may not go through it. The requisites for a lawful and sufficient fence laid down by a Virginia magistrate many years ago seems to fill the bill better than the judgment of the Texas court. Without speculating the material of which it was to be constructed, the requirements were that it should be "horse-high, pig-tight and bull-strong."

Shoe Industry.

With the beginning of a new month the shoe trade experiences no change. New business at the factories has been delayed until the spring retail trade is established. Manufacturers are discovering that sometimes salesmen go to the dealers too early, and there is a movement among manufacturers in the middle West in the interest of a later opening of the soliciting business. Should this spread eastward it would have a favorable effect in some ways. Retailers are unwilling to consider future business so long as an undeveloped season requires their attention. In the interests of good workmanship, well-ripened goods and advantageous buying of raw materials, the shoe dealer's orders can be placed with the manufacturers the better, but indecsion and uncertainty as to the future compel a short manufacturing season, before the selling season opens.One result of this condition is seen now when the movement of spring goods from the factory to the dealer has been delayed until near the time of opening the selling season and will continue even into the period when the new goods are selling.
Today there is more of this work in the factories than any other kind.That there is plenty of courage and hope in the shoe industry is evident from the construction of large, new plants, and the enlargement of existing ones. Future business will not be done at a loss, though prices of next season's goods will be higher. Manufacturers are desirous of keeping up the standard, even if prices go up, for all concerned from maker to wearer are better served if good shoes are produced and worn, than if cheaper grades at the same prices as today should fill the market. It is almost impossible to cheapen the standard of manufacture, without reducing the wearing-value of the shoes by a still greater ratio. Mechanical ingenuity has made it possible to incorporate cheap, and formerly ignored materials in good quality shoes; and thus offset, to a certain extent, the limited supply of shoe materials, but this does not apply to the production of cheap shoes.
Although inferior stock can be used to replace the good stock in high grade shoes the removal of good stock from cheap shoes makes them entirely cheap, and an all-inferior quality shoe may prove a very expensive article.The willingness of the public to accept subdued styles will help to maintain the quality of the goods with less advance in cost. While footwear are always ready but the cost of production is greater than in the case of black or brown goods because extra care and cleanliness is absolutely necessary in handling them. Even brown shoes have to be kept unsputted, and cannot be as rapidly produced as black. Nevertheless, the white shoe is to rule this spring and summer, and the brown shoe is to have another lining. It is even intimated that carnation-colored shoes are being manufactured for women who affect ultra fancies on their feet.A movement is in progress in favor of lace boots for both men and women, instead of buttoned boots. The button boot has had a run, and while liked, is never entirely satisfactory, and hardly any development of gaiter boots or form of straight buttoned can overcome the structural peculiarities. On the other hand the lace boot, in spite of the increased time required in putting on or off, fits better at all times, and looks much neater. Retailers object to the button boots, which cost them more to handle because of the time consumed in resetting buttons. The lace boot is coming back.—Boston Transcript.Eradicating a Duty.
It is the duty of each generation to rear its own burden.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube.
When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed. Forever nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars,

DEMONSTRATION

We are demonstrating every day that gas is the ideal fuel. Use a gas range for a week and you will hate the sight of a coal stove with its dirt and extra work, to say nothing of the unsatisfactory results received.Soon we will be running service pipes from our mains to cellars. We have about 200 orders for such work ahead and suggest that you place your order now to avoid delay later.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for all year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

The fall freshening cow is the profit-producer.

There is more danger in letting the incubator get too hot than too cold.

Don't imagine that your soil needs a rest. What it needs is a change of work.

The coldest weather does not kill the insects. Therefore spraying is the safest method of killing them.

Forcing laying hens with stimulants in good food is a dangerous and costly process in the long run.

The best place for the incubator is the one where the temperature is most nearly uniform from day to day, under natural conditions.

All living plants have definite needs every day during their growth, and if these needs are not supplied fully or regularly bad results must follow.

Kindness is one of the cheapest and best reasons you can feed to your stock. They resist it more than the most succulent thing you can put before them.

A horse will appreciate a good collar better than silver-mounted harness. A horse with sore shoulders is a reflection on the owner—an indication of his insight.

It will do the garden soil good to plow it over two or three times before planting time. Plow deep. The more the soil is stirred and mixed the better its mechanical condition, which affords larger and easier feeding area for roots.

The first spraying should be done as soon as the blossoms have fallen and the calyx should be very carefully poisoned at this time. This is the most important spraying of all and should be performed in the most thorough manner. About three weeks later the next spraying should be done.

Cabbage soil can not well be made too rich. Very early cabbage is secured by starting the plants ahead of the season and setting them in the field as soon as possible. Early maturing seed should be used, and the plants given frequent cultivation with liquid manuring as soon as heads begin to form.

Thousands of families in this country keep but a single cow. It is especially important in this case that she be a good one; for more depends on the single cow of the household of moderate means than on any of a large herd. As milk is a more important product from the single cow than butter is, the cow should be trained to give a mess until nearly her time to calve again.

The pig in the pen in the back yard of the suburban or small town dweller can be fed almost entirely on scraps and for this reason will produce a much larger profit on the investment than the grain-fed pig raised in the field. Of course, care must be taken that the pigs do not become a nuisance to the neighbors, but this can be secured if the back yards are of sufficient depth.

Only three or four pigs should be bought for the average family; do not have enough scraps to support more than that many pigs. Very small potatoes and other scraps from the kitchen can also be utilized by the hogs, although almost useless for human consumption. The pigs kept in a pen will usually be found healthy if the ordinary precautions are taken. The north side of the pen should be covered and made impervious to wind and rain, and the pigs should be provided with clean straw and pure water.

The green color in potatoes is properly objected to by consumers, who regard them as poisonous. They err, however, in attributing the green color to the poison used in destroying the beetle. The tuber is made green by exposure to the sun, and is poisonous just as potato tops are when green. In this condition potatoes are unfit for food, but are better for seed than those grown deeper in the soil. It is a good plan to place potatoes intended for seed in as light a place as possible two or three weeks before planting.

Will deeper soil really give us better crops? That homely creature the woodchuck may answer that question for us, wherever he has his home. See what he does by his deep digging. The rankest grass on the whole farm is right around the woodchuck hole. What has he done? He has brought up some of the fertility that has all these years been locked up waiting for us to make it available. The rains have moistened this soil, the sun-shine has warmed it, and splendid grass is the result.

It is much better to feed work horses a variety and smaller amounts than to feed heavily of one or two things. Where timothy is the only available hay, oats and sweet feed will aid in balancing the ration and furnish sufficient flesh and energy material. A given measure of oats, shelled corn and bran mixed is a better concentrated feed than when any one of them is given alone. A handful of oil meal mixed with the grain once or twice a week in the spring is a good food for the horse. It regulates the bowels and gives a glossy coat to the animal. Mares in foal and suckling colts should have more of variety and quantity.

Don't tell your troubles—sing or whistle them.

To be trusted is a greater compliment than to be loved.—George MacDonald.

"Character is what we are. Reputation is what people think we are."

Books are our universities, where souls are the professors.—Newell Dwight Hillis.

Success doesn't happen. It is organized, pre-empted, captured by "consecrated common sense"—Frances E. Willard.

"True politeness is to do and say the kindest things in the kindest way."

The wise man place the stock of his gun to his shoulder before he fires, but the fool looketh down the barrel to see the ball start.

Makes us laugh when the old rooster finds a worm and cackles over it till he gets all the hens in the yard around him and then just gobbles the worm up himself; but isn't that about what lots of folks do?

A broken reputashun is like a broken vase—it may be mended, but always shows where the break was.—Josh Billings.

You can fool some of the people all the time, and you can fool some of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time.—Abraham Lincoln.

Truth is tough. It will not break, like a bubble, at a touch; nay, you may kick it about all day, like a football, and it will be round and full at evening.—O. W. Holmes.

You need never wait for good company while hundreds of choice companions look down upon you from every library and ask you to take your pick.

Never give up when trials come; Never grow sad and blue; Never sit down With a tear or a frown; But "paddle your own canoe."

—Brewer.

I shall pass this way but once. Any good, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer it or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.—Gilpin.

A baseball fan thinks one is an optimist if one can cheerfully remember when one goes to work that the world is another day nearer the beginning of the new race for the pennant.

Little Helen's mamma was discussing the drink question with a visitor and the child listened gravely to the conversation. "Papa used to drink," she volunteered suddenly.

The visitor turned her head to conceal a smile, and mamma frowned and shook her head at the little one.

lazy to do its own thinking comes a-strap-up to pat him on the back and invite him to dinner—and everybody comes in on the chorus: "I told you so!"

Signs seen in Boston, according to the Transcript: Placard at a moving picture show, "Young children must have parents." In a haberdashery window, "Draping alterations patrons will be shaved in the back." Sign in a Tremont street store, "Empty boxes—suitable for Christmas gifts." In a tailor's shop, "We dye for others, why not let us dye for you?" In a clothing store, "These pants will look better on your legs than on our hands." A silversmith has a place next door to a restaurant, the former having put up a placard, "Jewelry of all kinds plated." The restaurant keeper followed with this: "Oysters and little neck clams plated."

Just as the young man with the rice on his head and the bride from an old show under his left ear is boarding the train, a number of individuals make a dash for him, drag him through the station, tearing his clothing, tramping upon his hat, and finally hurling him into a waiting car.

"Stop," says an officer. "What is the meaning of this?"

"Say," says the spokesman of the kidnapers, "we are all married men and this fellow has been the leader of the merry crowd that has plundered our trunks and lockers, made us feel like victims of the indignation. We are just getting even with him."

"That's enough," says the officer. "All I ask is that you take him to the edge of the town and gag him so his yells won't be too loud."

Shoe Industry.

There are several topics of conversation in boot and shoe industry circles at present all crowding into these spring weeks. The clearing out of winter stocks is being accomplished, and the clearance sale is a matter of argument, which is affected by the season, or prevented by the fortunate selection of goods by the dealer. The two influences may work in harmony, or they may be absolutely opposed. This year many dealers well situated in this respect, having bought stocks with conservatism, and helped by a long, cold winter. Happy today is the dealer who does not feel the necessity of sacrificing the last of the winter goods just before opening the stock for a new season.

The duration of the winter, while helping dealers to dispose of the heavy goods has delayed them in many instances from placing their orders for spring, and factories have been feeling the effects to such an extent that as the contracts are completed, they are obliged to shorten force, laying off some of the cutters and running the plants on reduced time. It is too early for duplicate business on spring lines, and fall samples are yet to be ordered.

The fall situation is now beginning to be a factor in the trade, as samples are ready and salesmen are beginning to go out into their fields, but it will be some time before the business develops if the policy of the buyers of waiting until they see their present stocks melting away before placing their orders for the next season is continued.

The early samples of fall lines are fair representatives of what may be expected; in men's wear moderation is the keynote as the radical designs of the past have been toned down, especially in the case of the jump-row and the high heel. In their place longer and narrower toes will be exploited, and more of the pointed toe boots will be seen than has been the case for several years. The tips will be plainer and less elaborate stitching and perforations will be used. Heels will have been reduced and broadened, one-inch being the common height. Buttons will give way to lacing, though devotees of the button boot can satisfy their desires. In a word comfort is being aimed at in shape, and sobriety in decoration.

Women's boots will retain the high top with the short or "J" top, and 7 and 7½ inches will be the standard, those tops of more height being in the line of novelties. Fourteen or sixteen buttons will be possible, and there will be some lace boots. The gutter-boot, which is made with leather vamp and cloth top carried down the sides like a gaiter, and buttoning on the side, to further keep up the illusion will be a feature. Heels and toes will be lowered in the staple lines although enough of the ultra style will be retained to keep up an appearance of slight change.

No small feature of the coming shoe-summer will be the white buck shoes for women, and some factories are turning out large quantities of these goods which promise to be serviceable because the leather can be washed and whitened when soiled. The material is chrome-tanned cowhide bleached white and filled with talcum powder, and is much cheaper than the genuine white buck leather. At the same time, even this is not the whole story, and inferior shoes will be produced which will promise unpleasant experiences for those tempted to adopt them.—Boston Transcript.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have
it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year
by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Plant less ground to corn and give it better culture. That is all there is to intensive farming.

Horses that have heavy coats of hair should be clipped now just before the new hair starts.

It is better to keep the cellar and root cellars clean. Store turnips, cabbages or potatoes to pollinate the air.

While the orchard is coming into bearing try vegetable growing as a side line.
This makes one of the surest and best resources of income.

It is easier to leave the farm than it is to get back to it after you are one in the city working as carpenter, bricklayer, carman, bookkeeper or clerk to meet your financial obligations.

Look out for a collar that rubs a lap of flesh at every stride of the horse. It is liable to wear a gall on his neck, and much sooner sometimes than suspected.

Uncover spinach that wintered over when heavy frosts are passing, and hoe between the rows. Sprouted or Roundleaved early; New Zealand, for midsummer, may be sown in May.

Cultivate the spring-set strawberry bed regularly and often. Keep the soil loose and mellow, and let no weeds get a foothold. After enough runners have rooted, cut off all surplus ones the same as if they were weeds. (If you are practising the hill system, keep off all runners.)

Always keep the earliest and best brood pullets for the home flock. There is also a good demand generally for nice pullets in the fall by those wanting them to keep.
Get rid of all undesirable stock and miss no opportunity for improving the flock.

It is difficult to understand why some do not grow more domestic animals.
Nearly all farmers have a few chickens and pigs each year, with perhaps a calf or two, and a few have a cow from a single brood mare. But not all the farmers keep half the live stock that their farms will easily support.

In the growing of live stock it pays not only to keep the best but to grow and finish them in the best possible manner.
This is the legitimate business of the farmer to make as much as possible from the animals he keeps. Other good qualities considered, the well finished animal always brings the highest price. Animals for sale that have not been properly finished, are usually a slow sale, and in many cases they will not bring the cost of their raising.

There is probably no place in the world where farming land is so valuable as in the island of Jersey, the average yearly rental being about $25 or $30 an acre at least, and in some of the richer parishes, such as St. Clements and the bottom lands of St. Quentin, the annual rental is as high as $125 or even $150. This is for especially warm and sheltered sections for potato growing.

As to whether or not fall or spring breaking should be practiced, each farmer must decide this for himself after a study of his own land. Level ground or gently rolling farms may be plowed with good results in the fall. Such a practice not only allows the water to act on the soil, but saves a good deal of time in the spring. However, lands which are rolling to hilly should not be fall plowed, because erosion takes away a great deal of the fine dirt, deep washes are cut, and the plant food which is available in late fall and early spring, is washed away. In either case fairly deep plowing is to be recommended.

Old Colony Gas Co.
Work was commenced again this week on laying service, as the frost is sufficiently gone to warrant this procedure. By the way orders for connections are coming in; the fitters will be very busy throughout the season.

The Artesian well on the plant property is now down one hundred and seventy feet and is steadily being drilled deeper in the hope that a good fresh water supply may yet be reached.

The Progress club held its regular meeting last Monday evening. Only a short meeting was held, owing to the unseasonable warmth. At the meeting of the Progress club, the bi-annual election of officers will take place.

rascal, with a grin; "I gave Jim a punch

Shoe Industry.
If the boot and shoe trade may be compared to the movement of the ocean tide, this period might represent the lowest ebb for business is about as near a standstill as can be imagined. The spring-manufacturing season is practically ended, with the exception of belated orders; and the production of fall and winter lines has not begun. At the retail end similar conditions exist. Dealers are closing out heavy goods, but not yet receiving much call for spring goods. If the sun were to shine for a few days consecutively there might be a new expression on the face of the market, but so long as the present climatic conditions obtain, the new season will not be introduced, and the selling and making shoes will be quiet.

Manufacturers are still lacking orders for next season, and plans are closing temporarily or running on reduced time or force. Stragglers orders for spring goods are about all that give them excuse for keeping in operation.

The situation shows lack of coherence between the manufacturing and selling elements. Each essential to the other, the manufacturing side is made subservient to the selling side and without advantage.
When dealers delay in placing their contracts until the eve of the new season, imagining that they are thus conserving their interests, they hamper themselves by handicapping the manufacturer for rush goods even from the best factory, cannot compare in merit to shoes produced under less stress and allowed more time to properly dry and "ripen." The manufacturer is hurried and the dealer is irritated by the enforced delay.

If desirable conditions could be enforced dealers would know at least the staples and novelties they could dispose of several months in advance of the season of sale.
Since the year is practical divided between two trade seasons the contracts for the fall and winter goods which would be on the dealers shelves in September would be ready to give to the salesman now, as he makes his visits. Then there would be no closing of shops or running on reduced time, or buying little lots of leather or running tanneries on conservative time but from packer to retailer the materials and shoes would move in harmonious measure.

Salesmen are visiting dealers, but for a time their returns to the factories will be more in the nature of duplications, and orders of certain lines; when under the requirements of well-organized industry the dealers would be ready with the initial contracts for fall and winter. The present condition has been reached because of the lack of cooperation between the two branches of the industry. Which branch is more at fault is not to be declared, circumstances varying, but it is very evident that the established ad heavily invested manufacturing side cannot afford to be competing with coming novelties.

The valuation of staples and novelties is a reason for a part of the position of the retail trade, and dealers do not intelligently size up the situation, giving too much importance to one or the other class. The sale of staples may Entered in the Post Office at Weymouth, Mass., as Second Class Matter.

FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1912.

The Gazette and Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all Newsstands in the Weymouth and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed. Notices of all local entertainments, which admission fee is charged must be paid for at regular rates, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

The storm of last Friday night raised havoc with the electric light system. 220 lights were burned out. The company has replaced 200 of them and will finish the work just as soon as they can get the new lamps.

If cordial and enthusiastic receptions are any indication of the inward feeling of a people, the Weymouthers are to be congratulated. The United States in Boston on Monday, paid to him as the man who will receive a flattering endorsement at the Primaries next month.

"The Weymouth Gazette, the first number of which we present to our readers today, is as its title indicates, devoted to the local interest of the town. In the opinion of prominent citizens, there is a field in Weymouth for such an enterprise and the encouragement offered has induced us to commence a weekly issue, in the hope that the business will be of a permanent character. A press in a town of sufficient importance to sustain it, is an advantage in many respects, as it affords a medium of communication in public matters which cannot be so readily attained by any other method, and as a record of passing events of a local nature it will be found worthy of preservation for the future, while it is of interest in the present. The Gazette will assume a secular or party position but its columns will be open for discussion and criticism concerning the town, and copies of public interest which may arise."

Our readers will notice that this issue is No. 1, Vol. LXIV of the Gazette and in presenting it we quote the above which is a part of the first editorial of its founder, Charles G. Eastbrook. In the years which have rolled by since the first issue of the paper Weymouth has seen many changes; most of the active men of forty six years ago have been "gathered to their fathers" and among them Mr. Eastbrook. There have also been many changes in municipal and business affairs; none of the town officers of forty-six years ago are now in active service; new departments and methods, necessitated by the various industries, which have come to the front, have induced a new order of things, and many of the old ways, steam rollers and many other things have come in vogue. The Gazette, while it has seen many changes, goes on. "Our Flag is Still There" and to opening a new volume we can only say that what the founder of the paper said, "There is a field in Weymouth for such an enterprise" and to the best of our ability we will fill that field and ask the public to assist in the work. We are often reminded of a remark of Mr. Eastbrook: "What to put in your paper will not bother you much, but the material will, which to leave out." While we are trying to give the people the best and there is of interest in current events and an open medium for discussing ways, methods of public improvement we are also drawing the line of making the Gazette a grid for recording individual and corporate action, which we are often asked to do. In short we will give the people the best we can, reserving always the right to decide what to leave out."

Storm Made Work for Electric Company.

Considerable damage was done to the lines in North and South Weymouth during the severe storm, and the company sent out its men to repair the weakened places as soon as they were located. A large force of men worked all day Saturday, so that no one should be without light in the evening and they were successful in restoring perfect service before the time for pressing the button. If the storm wasn't the "equivalent" it certainly was the equal of any "line storm" that has visited this part of the country in some time.

Mrs. Ellis J. Fitch Dead.

Mrs. Ellis J. Fitch, a long time resident of this town passed away last Monday at her home on Pleasant Street South Weymouth, from a brief illness of pneumonia. At the time of her death she was 82 years of age. She was born in Weymouth, New Hampshire, but came to this town many years ago. She was a member and a faithful worker of the Union Congregational church of South Weymouth. A husband, one son, George Fitch, and two daughters, Mrs. Florence Mann of Wollaston and Miss Elsie Fitch, now living in Boston, were her survivors. Her funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Albert V. House of the Union church. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and the funeral home was very beautiful. Burial was in the Highland cemetery.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear, or the ear itches, or it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Time cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

Weymouth Board of Trade.

As per our statement of last week, we give below the very interesting address of Edward W. Hunt, president, to the Board of Trade and its guests.

Members of the Board of Trade:

"At your last meeting during my absence you elected me president of this organization. I desire to thank you at this time for the honor conferred. But I must say that while I am deeply interested in the welfare of our good old town I sincerely wish the honor had been conferred on some one better qualified to carry on the work. I have consulted with myself and others and I have come to the conclusion that you have made a mistake, so when I make mistakes in the future, I trust you will be charitable. Nevertheless I am proud to be president of the Board of Trade of Weymouth. It is the best town in all New England and you who live in it and those who are to live in it are the best people on the face of the earth."

"I therefore accept the call not because I want it but rather because you ask it. Realizing the importance of the position and the opportunity which possibilities which should be improved and undertakings carried out, I earnestly ask each of you to do your duty. Remember you are a member of the Board of Trade. Don't be afraid to advertise it. Don't be afraid to ask your friends and neighbors to join it. Catch the spirit of the successful ball player. Make team plays and you will thus help to make (as Col. Castle said) a 'Wiser, Worthier and Wealthier Weymouth.'"

"Weymouth is a town of opportunities, splendidly located and richly endowed with a splendid growth, has abundant people, with a water supply second to none in the state, seven or more miles of water frontage, in close proximity to what will be in the near future one of the best harbors in the world, and with areas of undeveloped land which can be made into parks and playgrounds. A valuable asset to any town."

"Can anyone show me a better town? Whose fault is it that Weymouth has not increased in population in the last thirty years 2,325, while Brockton has increased 43,270 and Braintree has jumped from 4,000 to 8,000 and Quincy has increased by 75,788."

"During the same thirty year period Weymouth gained in valuation only $1,810,029; while Braintree gained $5,532,255; Quincy $25,257,051; Milton $18,413,978; Cohasset $6,490,230; and Brookline $77,724,800."

"Gentlemen we have been asleep. We have neglected our opportunities. It's time to get up and do something. It's time for action, and it's up to the Board of Trade to show the way."

"I will not attempt at this time to analyze the good work. And you have done good work during the last year. But I will say and I think I have been in a position to know that your efforts and influences have been productive of good results. Let me say right here that I believe the town I sincerely thank you for that good work. The very fact of your existence has been a good thing. But new times and new measures demand that we enlarge, that we broaden out. For to my mind there never was a time since Weymouth was incorporated that she needed so much co-operation and the backing of a large, healthy, progressive body of trade."

"But how shall we enlarge? How shall we broaden out? We must do it by advertising. We must do it by education. And it can be done."

"Let me be emphatic that this organization is working for the upbuilding of Weymouth and for nothing else. That we know no North, no South, no East, no West. Let our motto be 'One for all, and all for one and that one a Weymouth.'"

"I have taken then let's have a revival. Arouse public spirit. Invite our citizens. Invite every public official. Appeal to them, tell them of our aims and of our purpose and then in the name of Weymouth ask them to join and assist in helping to make our town and their town larger, better and richer."

"Remember, Weymouth is a corporation and the more you boom her the better dividends you will receive. We might well appropriate the slogan of our high school boys, which is 'Wake up, Weymouth, then Watch Weymouth grow.' So I say to you, wake up through you to the citizens, wake up, get busy. Let every member be a committee of one on new membership and report at the April meeting. The cost is small compared with the results that can be obtained. We need and we want improvement. There is no better way to get them than by co-operation."

The past two days I have attended before the committee on Metropolitan affairs of the Legislature. The subject under discussion being the Metropolitan Plan Bill. This may not become a law, but a large force of men worked all day Saturday, so that no one should be without light in the evening and they were successful in restoring perfect service before the time for pressing the button. If the storm wasn't the "equivalent" it certainly was the equal of any "line storm" that has visited this part of the country in some time.

"I speak from knowledge and not merely as a man of opinion, when I say that I know there are people scattered throughout the country who cherish the memory of Weymouth as having been their own or that of their ancestors birth-place and would be glad to contribute to so worthy and beneficial a project as a playground if they knew some systematic plan had been made for securing the same, will be at the head of the parade of the foot of those of the towns I have mentioned."

The Art of Listening.

[Written for the Gazette and Transcript.]

It is an interesting study to watch how people listen to what you have to tell them. Very few people are what you could call "good listeners."

"This is all a conversation runs—'Tell me about your new position. I'm just dying to hear.'"

"Oh, I'm with a rubber firm, Grinn & Barrett, on 133rd street."

"Yes, but—"

"I suppose it's awfully noisy, isn't it?"

"No, we are on the corner, but—"

"Isn't it fearfully noisy?"

"No, we—"

"Oh, day! are you in the new Trust Building?" (A nod.) "I've always thought it would be great to work there. Our firm is taking of going into business for himself and he may get offices in that building. Won't it be great if he does? Then we can go together. I have been working on Jackson street. It's all I can do to get this five o'clock train. You see how late you get your things on early so you can skip out at five?"

"Yes, but—"

"Well, that's one good thing about Mr. Fitch. He doesn't say 'He's noisy.'"

"Awfully glad to have seen you and heard about the new position."

"Sitting in front and hearing this conversation, one can't help wondering how much she really knows about her friend's new position. But she is a fair sample of a poor listener and in a while we strike an extreme who is even worse."

"In olden days children were taught to be seen and not heard. That training was calculated to develop a few good listeners. In these days the rule is less strictly observed and children are expected, even urged, to say clever things for the amusement of their elders. Hence they grow up with the idea that unless they are talking there isn't any go to the occasion."

It is an unfortunate habit to be a poor listener. Think how much you miss when your friends might tell you, if only you kept still long enough to hear it.

Make it a rule to let your eyes flash every sentence he begins. You know how annoying it is to have some one take a sentence out of your possession and finish it for you. For these times out of five he finishes it the wrong way.

Perhaps you have been in a company when a story has been interrupted. Have you noticed how seldom it is, in such a case, that any one in the party asks the narrator to continue his tale? Either the listener is so busy that a story was in process, or else they have stories of their own to tell. It's simple courtesy, surely, to give the interrupted one the chance to finish.

The first requisite of a good listener is to have a genuine interest in people and their doings. No greater opportunity exists for an interest in asking a question does not always sustain it long enough to hear the answer.

So many of us lament that we are not witty, that we cannot shine in company. We should remember that we can make ourselves exceedingly valuable members of a company by cultivating the art of listening.

Great Real Estate Issue.

On Saturday, April 6, the Boston Evening Transcript will print a generous amount of reading matter which will be of interest to real estate owners, investors and those who lease or have summer homes at the seashore, mountains or country.

Anyone having a house, farm, cottage or desirable located land for sale or exchange, or a summer place to rent for the season will do well to secure advertising space in this issue for it will have a large circulation among interested people all over the United States.

KIERSTEAD—CRONIN.

Lowell Man Comes to East Weymouth for Bride.

A quiet home wedding took place last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Marion J. (Cronin) Shaw of 264 Broad Street, East Weymouth, when her daughter, Miss Marion Cronin, became the bride of William Allan Kierstead, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kierstead of Lowell. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by the Rev. Walter A. Commons, pastor of the East Weymouth Congregational church, when the bride attended and has been a faithful worker for many years.

The best man was Walter T. Cronin of East Weymouth, a brother of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Genevieve Burrell of East Weymouth.

After the ceremony a short reception was held to the relatives and friends of the couple that were present, at the conclusion of which, the newly wedded couple left for a wedding trip to Bermuda.

The bride is well known in social circles in this town and is exceedingly popular with all who are acquainted with her. For the past few years she has been employed in the advertising department of the Stetson Shoe Co., and her faithful and conscientious work has made her a prime favorite with the firm with which she worked.

The groom is widely known in business circles in his home city of Lowell and is manager of the Lowell branch of the Armour Beef Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Kierstead were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and costly gifts from many friends.

They will be at home at 266 Branch Street, Lowell, after June 1.

Graves—Robinson.

One of the prettiest weddings ever witnessed in Elizabeth City was held Wednesday night March 6th, when Mr. Edward Graves of Belhaven N. C., and Miss E. Robina Robinson of East Weymouth, Mass. were united in marriage.

The wedding was held in Olive Branch Baptist Church. The wedding party was grouped about an arch made with double gates and trimmed with blue and white and garlands of daisies and Forget me nots.

As the wedding march was played, down each of the two main aisles came the bridesmaids and their attendants Miss Viola Spingstien of Mass. and Mr. Will Barnes of E. City. Miss Sarah Young of Hertford, N. C., and Walter Vaughn of E. City, the bridesmaids.

Miss Mabel Jackson of Malden, Mass., a class mate of the bride was maid of honor. These were all associated with the bride in the school, where she has taught for the past two years. Miss Sadie B. Davis of Augusta Ga. then sang "Because God Made This Mine."

The music changed to Lohengrin's Wedding March. The bride entered with her mother. She wore a gown of white chiffon over Messaline silk and trimmed with crystal trimmings, carried a bouquet of sweet peas and a veil with lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids wore light marquisette over blue messaline silk and carried brides roses. The little flower girls and ring bearer were also dressed in blue silk.

During the ceremony Miss Davis sang softly, "Oh, Promise Me." The Episcopal Service was read by Rev. Dr. Morrissey of the Eastern Diocese of N. Carolina.

After a short wedding trip to Raleigh N. C. they will be at home on Pamlico St. Belhaven N. C.

Baseball Outlook At High School Very Good For Season of 1912.

With Thomas V. Nash, former chairman of the school committee and an authority on baseball, in charge of the squad of players at the school, the baseball outlook for this coming season is very good indeed. There are thirty odd names on the list.

Mr. Nash has volunteered his services as coach of the team and it is hoped the student body and public in general will support the nine in the right spirit. Joseph Dunn is captain of this year's nine and the first practice will be held as soon as the weather will permit.

Manager Robert B. Fitzgerald and asst. Manager Philip Miller announce the following schedule of games, April 19, C. M. A. at E. Weymouth; April 26, C. M. A. at Quincy; April 30, May 8, Hingham at Weymouth; May 7, Weymouth at Weymouth; May 10, Cohasset at Cohasset; May 14, Rockland at Weymouth; May 21, Hingham at Weymouth; May 24, Rockland at Rockland; May 28, Cohasset at Weymouth; June 1, Boston College High at Weymouth; June 4, open; June 7, Whitman at Whitman; June 8 and 11, open; June 14, Hingham at Hingham.

WHY WOMEN SUFFER.

Many Weymouth Women are Learning the Cure.

Women often suffer, not knowing the cause. Backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness, irregular urinary passages, weakness, fainting, etc., are the result of a weak kidney.

Each a seeming torture of itself. Together tell of weakened kidneys. Strike at the root—get to the cause. Quickly give the help the kidneys need. No remedy endorsed like Doan's Kidney Pills.

Her's convincing proof from this locality. Mrs. G. McDonald, 276 Water St., Quincy, Mass., says: "When I used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1908 the results were so satisfactory that I publicly recommended the remedy. That statement still holds good. I felt all out of sorts for at least six months. As I was a housewife I knew what ailed me. I had but little energy to attend to my household and my back was painful and weak. An acquaintance heard me complain and suggested that probably my kidneys were disordered and advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so and in a few days my back was better, my energy was up and my appetite good, making me feel like an entirely different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

16th ANNUAL LADIES NIGHT.

Wessaguest Men's Club Hold Successful Party Despite Severe Storm.

The Wessaguest Men's club of North Weymouth held its 16th Annual Ladies Night in G. A. R. Hall East Weymouth last Friday night, and in spite of the wind and rain a large crowd turned out for the festivities.

After a short reception a delicious banquet was served by Blanchard and Burritt caterers of South Weymouth. This feature was followed by violin solos by Miss Hazel Clarke accompanied by Miss Jeannette Clarke and the amusing sketch entitled "Daisy Delemons" the girls by local talent. At the conclusion of this sketch dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock with music furnished by Maxima orchestra. The committee in charge was J. H. Libby, Manual Page, Russell H. Whiting, Frank H. Torrey and C. C. Howland.

High School Notes.

Friday, the 22nd of March, there will be a public debate in the school hall between the seniors and juniors. The question is "Resolved that Roosevelt is a more logical candidate than Taft for the next Republican Nomination." The seniors will take the affirmative of the question.

The resignation of Robert Fitzgerald as manager of the baseball team was not accepted by the Athletic association, but it was voted to give him an assistant in the person of Phillip Miller '12.

Last Friday the seniors outclassed the juniors in a game of basketball. The seniors were strengthened by Phillips, while the juniors played with the juniors. Phillips starred for the seniors, holding Fulton from scoring, Hannaford and Riley played a fast game.

"Golf and a Prince." "Golf has its humors," said a champion golfer. "And this stroke me particularly in a conversation at a golf club that I once had with a Persian prince. The prince, as he sat on the golf piazza, was surrounded by various champions drive off, drawled: "I don't see very much in golf. No object is to be gained by the depositing of a white ball in a subterranean cavity, and if any object were to be gained the shortest and surest method would surely be to carry the ball in the hand from cavity to cavity."

"But, prince," I said, "the difficulty of getting the ball into the cavity, as you call them, is what constitutes the attraction of the game."

"The difficulty constitutes the attraction of the game," the prince frowned. "Well, he went on, it would be more difficult to shave with a coal shovel than a razor, but I don't think many men are tempted on that account to remove their heads each morning in that way."—Exchange.

Undertakers. In England in 1614 undertakers were men of influence who undertook for a consideration to get such persons returned to parliament as would prove useful to the state. The first undertaker was James I. The three chief undertakers of 1614 were Lords Bacon, Somerset and Neville. They undertook to bribe the chief speakers and men of influence in parliament that year over to the side of the king, with but partial success. Then there were undertakers in Ireland in 1608. They were English and Scotch and undertook to bribe the Irish lords and men of influence in Ireland and were each allotted 2000 acres of land. They were men of capital and undertook to pay a mark a year for every acre and to admit no revenue for ten years hence the name as applied to them. But neither the histories nor the dictionaries give any reason for calling the men who bury our dead undertakers.

Granite Telegraph Poles. The great abundance of granite rocks and the lack of other in the southern part of Switzerland have led to the employment of the former for purposes usually filled by the latter. This in many sections of the southern country the fences are of granite instead of wood, the supports for the grapevines are granite posts, and pavements, etc., are of granite. Perhaps the most striking departure from the ordinary, however, is the use of granite pillars in place of the usual wooden telegraph, telephone and electric poles. Near Lake Como and Lake Maggiore the old highroads originally constructed by the Romans are fringed with granite pillars eighteen feet high carrying telegraph wires—Popular Mechanics.

SEA POSTOFFICES.

Handling and Sorting the Mail Matter on Ocean Liners. Every one is aware that a large quantity of mail comes from Europe. Probably most persons assume that it is dumped off at steamers in bulk and sorted and routed in the postoffice of the receiving port. Such a system would result in hopeless confusion, and practically all of the 15,000,000 pounds of foreign mail matter received at New York on an average of recent years is ready, sorted and sacked when the steamers make port. This is done in the sea postoffice aboard the ships and means days saved in the time of delivery of mail matter intended for inland points.

In the huge mms of mail brought from Europe each year there are on an average 80,000,000 separate pieces, many thousands with inadequate addresses, yet to such a degree of efficiency has the operation of the sea postoffice been brought and so carefully is the work done that less than 600 errors are made annually. As the entire quantity of the ocean mail received in New York in 1910 was 15,000,000 pounds, it is an almost incredible accuracy is indicated—less than one error of any kind whatever for every four cars of mail.

Congress authorized the sorting of mail on board conveying steamships in 1850, but it was not until the year following that any systematic effort was made to do so. The work of the sea postoffice is very similar to that of the railway mail service. On board a large liner there will be usually two United States clerks, two in the employ of the country from which the steamer sails and several subalterns or porters. This force will on an average trip open and sort from 800 to 900 sacks of mail, probably consisting of 500,000 ordinary letters and 4,000 registered letters, besides 25,000 parcels and periodicals. Mail for New York city is distributed and separately sacked for each of the stations and that for the United States generally according to a schedule which has 125 divisions. In addition to the United States clerks, the sea postoffice clerks must sort that destined for Cuba, Mexico, Canada and the Orient, a great deal of the last class being forwarded by mail to San Francisco and thence by steamer.

To facilitate matters two mail boats are maintained at New York, and these meet incoming mail at the quarantine station, one taking on the mail bags intended for direct delivery to trains and steaming directly to the railway stations along the river from the other that for New York city and such others as require rehandling. This sea postoffice cost the government something less than $3,000,000 per annum.—Harper's.

The Whale's Will.
The fire in the parlor of the Spotted Cow roared up the chimney, while the hardened fishermen hoisted and wrangled over their dingy dollops. Then the tall, spare, silent man who had been listening quietly spoke:
"Gentlemen, did it ever occur to you to consider the fact that the whale that swallowed Jonah?"
"What's the good of wondering about a thing like that?" said the trout fisherman rudely. "Nothing definite is known."
"Boys," he continued, "she must 'ave tipped the beam at—"
"Look here," the silent man interrupted again. "I know what became of that whale."
"Humph!" said the trout fisherman. "What?"
"For the rest of his life he made a lot of himself telling all the other whales he met how the biggest and heaviest man he ever caught wriggled free and got away!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Brutal Thomas.
The worn chestnut of all proverbs is—well, you know what it is—"Lucky as cards, lucky at love." If your bridge partner is a little dirty she always goes off at you and springs it. Then she leads you away to a secluded spot. You know Tommy Treat-hinger was the only one who ever knew to lead this game, and that was an accident. Here was the way of it: "Are you very lucky at cards?" asked the woman.
"Very," said Tommy. "I always win."
"How about love?" she continued, looking arch and kittenish.
"Lucky again," plunging Tommy—"I always lose."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

True Altruism.
There is a beautiful little story in Emerson's recently published "Journals," of which his son, the editor, Dr. Edward W. Emerson, said the poet was very fond.
A certain widow was so poor that she eked out the one thin bed covering by laying an old door over herself and her little children.
"Mamma," one of the children said one bitter night, "why do those poor little children do that haven't got a door to cover them?"—Youth's Companion.

GATHERED UP.

Live, love and die, and trust God for the rest.—Riley.

A room without books is like a body without a soul.—Cicero.

His heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong.—Emerson.

Don't abuse a confidence. You have no more right to tell another's secrets than to unlock his safe.

Some men are trying to be self-made, but day after day they are digging their cellar.

Teach me to feel another's woe, To hide the fault I see; That mercy I to others show, That mercy show to me.—Pope.

The man who makes a practice of fighting for his rights generally has a chip on his shoulder.

Make all you can honestly, Save all you can prudently, Give all you can possibly.

—Mottoes of John Wesley.

Avoid looking intently at your neighbor's plate. He has to eat what's on it, not you.—Scottish Typographical Journal.

Why will a man wait for his cent from the neighbor and then turn around and give a groveling water a dime for passing him a glass of water?

Lose other things, you never seem To come upon their track; But lose a naughty little word, It's always coming back.—Rollin.

Opportunity has hair in front; behind she is bald. If you seize her by the forelock, you may hold her; but if suffered to escape, not Jupiter himself can catch her again.—From the Latin.

A cordial smile, a little word of cheer, Brief note, best wishes for a happy year.

May change a life from one that's dark and sad To a life that's both radiant and glad.

"A little word in kindness spoken, A motion, or a tear, Has often healed the heart that's broken And made a friend sincere."

When people begin saying how young you look it is sure a sign you are growing old.—Atchison Globe.

It is easy for a girl to believe that a certain young man is her affinity—until after they are married.

Nothing is more disappointing than the actions of a pretty girl who thinks her love looks an excuse for impoliteness.

Here lies a soldier whom all must applaud, Who fought many battles at home and abroad; But the hottest engagement he ever was in Was the conquest of self in the battle of sin.—Epitaph over a Soldier's Grave.

Kindness is a quality which every girl ought to cultivate. No matter how pretty and fascinating a woman may be, she is of little account unless she has a good nature as well.

"Although he knew I was working says our friend with the long hair and the thick eyebrows, 'the best right in upon me and my ideas went to smithereens.'"

"Too bad," we commiserate. "Yes, I told him he had wrecked my train of thought, and he calmly said I needn't worry as the train carried no passengers."

Householder—Here drop that coat and clear out! Burglar—You be quiet or I'll wake your wife and give her this letter I found in your pocket.—New York Mail.

"Have you any references?" asked the lady of the house. "Yes, ma'am. A lot of 'em."

"Then why didn't you bring them with you?" "They're just like my photographs, ma'am. None of 'em does me justice."—Derby Free Press.

A man whose illness threatened to develop into typhoid was taken to the hospital. Instead of growing worse he improved and at the end of the fourth day, when his wife visited him, he asked to be taken home.

"But you have paid for a week," replied his thrifty spouse. "They won't refund the money. You had better stay your week out."—New York Herald.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

A cow appreciates punctuality in milking as much as a man does in meals.

Cold weather has prepared the soil for a bounteous crop next summer.

No farmstead is complete without a generous space devoted to a garden for small fruits and vegetables.

Of all fowl ducks are the easiest to raise. The eggs are more fertile than those of any other fowl.

How about grape vines? The quickest fruit to yield return, and one of the most healthful. A family, with plenty of this luscious fruit, has little occasion to apprehend an attack of fevers.

No branch of husbandry now pursued offers better opportunities for profits for the amount of money invested and the time expended than the production of hogs.

Sooner or later the chicken thief gets his due, but that does not recompense one for the loss of his stock; therefore, in building chicken houses care should be taken in their location and construction to prevent loss through thieves.

Bounded or ground hogs are one of the best poultry feeds, as it contains just the mineral elements the birds need. Green bone contains less of animal matter while burned bone is pure mineral.

Do you use a spike-tooth harrow? How are the teeth? Worn down blunt? Take them out and have the blacksmith sharpen them. The harrow will do a great deal better work then.

When ordering harness for the spring work have the collars made to order. Take the horses to the harness maker and get him to make collars that will fit. There is nothing more annoying than sore shoulders in the midst of harvest.

The essentials of a good poultry house are a tight roof and three heavy walls that will exclude both cold winds and dampness. In addition to these, there must be ample means for ventilation and the admission of direct sunlight, without which no domestic animals can be expected to keep well and prove profitable.

Why not feed the laying hens some potatoes, cabbage, turnips, etc., and thus make them feel somewhat as they did in the summer, when they found plenty of green material for food? Then your egg basket would also fill up as it did "in the good old summer time."

A cow should be treated with especial attention when she is approaching the period of freshness, for her milking qualities can be greatly improved by a little special diet at this time, while if she is neglected she will go back in milk production. A cow should become fresh with a fully developed udder. To obtain this she should have an alfalfa and hay ration with plenty of grain or another balanced ration.

Fertilizers can be used successfully to build up the fertility of the soil so that it will produce much better crops without than it did before its use, provided that the mechanical condition of the soil at the same time is improved in its process of upbuilding by the addition of needed vegetable matter; and most of our soils need additional vegetable matter to be converted into humus more than any other one thing to improve their fertility and increase their crop producing power.

The two most direct and valuable results of deep plowing are deepening the seed bed for greater root penetration and a deepening of the surface layer to a sponge-like condition for catching and holding large quantities of water for crop needs during dry spells in summer. Last summer crops suffered severely for want of moisture during the prolonged dry weather. Those who plowed deep in spring had better crops than those who plowed shallow, for the reason that the more deeply stirred soil held in reserve a greater quantity of water. Also the roots of the growing crops had a chance to strike down deeper for more moisture and greater protection.

Some imagine that in order to do a good job of deep plowing the field must be clean of dead vegetable growth and trash of all kinds. It is a fact that bare land offers less obstruction to the plow than land covered with stalks or weeds, but since this dead vegetable matter turned under becomes a valuable fertilizer, then it is the business of the good farmer and plowman to use a heavy team and heavy plow for turning all under. The test of the merit of the good plow and plowman is how effectively they can cover all the trash in a deep furrow. Burning this dead trash for the plow is the lazy man's method. Plowing deep and turning under a deep layer of trash is good plowing.

Stock growers differ as to the age at which pigs should be weaned. Some wean as early as six to seven weeks, while others allow the pigs to run with the sow for ten weeks or more, or until the sow weans them herself. The Illinois Experiment Station took a litter of pigs and weaned them at eight weeks of age, fed them on a special ration, and made them average 300 pounds at exactly eight months of age. This test in weaning and feeding shows that no injury is done pigs by separating them from the sow and mother's milk at eight weeks of age, although these pigs were given far better feed and care after weaning than the average farmer and stockman gives.

Transactions between shoe manufacturers and dealers on next season's goods will be conservative, according to present indications. Raw materials continue to rule too high to permit any lower prices for shoes. Dealers will probably select their goods with considerable care as to quality and value, for if the consumers are to be forced to pay for shoes in September and October, 1912, than they paid for similar grades in the same months of 1911, it is likely that every bit of wear will be got out of shoes now in service before new ones are bought. That being the case, dealers will be obliged to wait longer for customers and will do less business. They will have to be careful in their selections, already they are showing caution, for salesmen out with samples are obtaining lighter orders than should be the case at this time of year if deliveries of goods are to be made in season.

As a result of this position of the dealers, factories are hampered and work is daily growing less, as the spring contracts are completed and no new ones for fall come to hand.

Absence of new work is keeping the manufacturers away from the leather market, as they are not inclined to buy leather of their needs, and still less as they believe that leather prices will not go higher. If prices would ease, shoe manufacturers would be tempted to buy.

While it is true, for the good of the entire industry, that fall contracts be placed it is not surprising that shoe retailers desire to make purchases. The recent drawback of winter retards new business except possibly in over-shoes.

If interest in leather is any index it would seem that the interest in tan goods is waning in the East, and that black leather will be more prominent next fall and winter than it was last. At the same time the West is pushing the business in Russia calf as if there was no intention there of giving up tan shoes. Under some circumstances the Russia calf shoe would be a satisfactory all-year-around article in some climates, and a division of the year with the black shoe might be better in others. Fashions move slowly sometimes, and what has become stable in one section is yet a staple in another, and a novelty elsewhere. Business is sectional and not co-ordinated sufficiently for progress.

When one gives too great importance in deciding trade policies, and more and more the advantage is apparent of dividing the year between black and brown goods to such an extent that tanner, shoe manufacturer and consumer would be better served.

All economic conditions in the boot and shoe industry are adverse to many novelties and freaks. The initial cost of production of such goods is increased beyond that of staples; the actual proportion of buyers is small compared to the demands for staples, and the value of the left-overs, which another season are outlawed and out of style, is negative for even the thrifty buyer will not select ultra styles that are antiquated. For these reasons the limitation of fancy styles, and the addition of value to staples is more to the advantage of the trade than the multiplying of novelties.

In view of the increased cost of materials and production manufacturers prefer to produce high-grade staples of conservative styles to the ultra exotics, and the tendency now and for next season is away from the radical styles of a year ago. Here in New England plain effects and drop toes are being produced in men's shoes, at the same time manufacturers are trying to keep the standard of shoes up to the cost.—Boston Transcript.

MONARCH OF FLOOR OILS

DEODORIZER INSECTICIDE DISINFECTANT GERMICIDE

And Dust Layer for Floors, Furniture, Carpets and Rugs.

Kills all Kinds of Insects.

Composed of pure oils and chemicals; non-inflammable and non-poisonous. The best dust layer on the market. Dust does not stick to the floor after applying, thus preventing the soiling of skirts and clothing. Applied in the form of spray by atomizer, it cleans and oils polished or hardwood floors, pianos, organs, furniture, carpets, rugs, straw matting, gilt frames, glass or metals. It is unexcelled as a filter for mosquitoes and other insects.

Sure death to bed bugs, buffalo bugs, moths and ants, water bugs, roaches, fleas on cats and dogs, flies on horses and cows. Instant death to lice on hens and chickens, horses and cattle. It has also proved excellent on human beings for vermin. On horses and cows it will keep the flies away from five to eight hours while in the pasture or barn. Apply by atomizer or sponge.

DIRECTIONS:
Fill atomizer two-thirds full, always leaving screw cap loose one-half turn for vent. For spraying floors, carpets, rugs, etc., hold handle with one hand stationary at your side, then swing atomizer with other hand with a swaying motion from left to right, moving cylinder back and forth on rod, forcing spray tightly on object, and sweep off with corn broom. For PLANTS AND SHRUBBERY, dilute with three-quarters water. For ANIMALS, CHICKENS, and all other uses not mentioned, apply full strength without rubbing off.

BLESSINGS THAT ARE OVERLOOKED

A man started to Cuba. When he reached Tampa, Florida, his money gave out. By doing odd jobs, he got barely enough to pay his passage home by steamer. He did not know what he would do for meals but determined to take his chances. He starved for two days and on the third could stand it no longer. Going boldly into the dining room he ordered and ate until he could eat no more. Then he timidly asked the steward how much he owed. "You don't owe anything," replied the steward. "Meals are included in the price of your ticket."

Moral. To cook you must buy fuel, and for the money you pay you might as well have all the comfort you can get. Gas gives you every comfort minus all the inconveniences and discomforts of any other cooking appliance, and at no extra cost. BUY HER A GAS RANGE, IT IS YOUR DUTY.

On Easter Sunday there will be the usual Easter sermon and music in the morning.

Great Real Estate Edition.

Everyone interested in "Summer Homes" either at the seashore, mountains or country will want to read the specially written articles which will be published in addition to the popular regular features in the Boston Evening Transcript of Saturday, April 6.

A number of engaging topics in this issue will doubtless cause much favorable comment. Others will surely have a real value to investors and those concerned in the welfare of the city and suburbs. Real Estate men and individuals who have properties to dispose of or rent should take advantage of this important opportunity and immediately secure sufficient advertising space to properly place their holdings before so many interested persons as will be reached by the April 6 edition of the Transcript, which will have a larger circulation than any previous issue.

After the tables had been cleared away and taken out of the room and some few moments had been devoted to business, the President Judge Albert E. Avery, introduced the speaker of the evening, Charles H. Johnson of the Boston Real Estate Society, who announced his subject as "Historic Quincy-Past and Present."

The lecturer, who had been in the city on his address before the lights were turned out and the pictures shown upon the screen and then for about an hour and a half, delivered his address, which, what might have seemed to many, a surprising recitation of the historic wealth of ancient Quincy.
